CHANGED WITH MURDERING ELEVEN—Marie Bernard, 26-year-old widow awaiting trial in the serene deaths of 11 acquaintances and members of her family, is pictured after a preliminary trial in Putnam, France, in which she was found guilty of having put a false signature to a warrant. The widow, described by her townpeople as kind-hearted and pious, had been declared sane and it found guilty in the 11 deaths faces the guillotine. At the preliminary trial she was sentenced to two years in prison for the false signature.—Central Press Canadian.

MURDER SUSPECT IS COMMITTED TO MENTAL HOSPITAL—Mrs. William McCullough of Windsor, had since Jan. 26 in the blood-strewn slaying of her 20-year-old foster daughter, Martha Louise, has been committed to a mental hospital at Bellevue. Officials believe the charge against 22-year-old woman, who is said to have killed her foster daughter because she refused to marry with her, will be dropped. Her husband, however, charged guilty in murder, has been committed to jury trial for the summer session following a recent preliminary hearing in police court in Windsor.—Central Press Canadian FELL SIX FLOORS WITHOUT HARM—Three-year-old Roberto Henry, is shown being examined in a New York hospital by Dr. Abel Motol after she picked herself up and tumbled off after falling six stories into duck shrubbery. An x-ray examination at the hospital revealed no serious injury to the child.

DEFENDS HIS HOME AGAINST RAIDERS—Howard Everett, 30-year-old North Carolina farmer stands at the door of his three-room cabin holding the rifle with which he fought off an attempt by marauders led by some men. When shots from the rifle drove off the raiders, Everett took his family to a neighbor's home. With him joining the Civil War are James J. Jr., Mrs. Betty and baby Shirley. Young baby looks visible in front of his dad. Recently ten men, believed to be Ku Klux Klan members, were arrested for begging a man and a woman in North Carolina.

THE CLATTER OF CHIPPING HAMMERS against grey-bellied ships, as workers removed years' paint, resound along Montreal's waterfront as the harbor awakens from another winter's sleep. As the ice-breakers N.R. McLean, Ernest Lapointe and Starns are leading their way up the ice-locked St. Lawrence River the workers are turning out to ready the ships in port for another shipping season.

ATTEND FILM PREMIERE—His Excellency P. R. Bakshi, High Commissioner for India in Canada with Mrs. Bakshi, attended the recent Canadian premiere of The River, first technical film screened entirely in India. While in Montreal for the movie showing he received letters from the A.I. to India from McGill students, and attended a civic reception and met Indian nationals as well as R.C.A.P. personnel stationed in India during the past war.

RELIEVED HEAD OF DRUG TRAFFIC—Gillespie Calabrese, 51, who is described by U.S. police as the infamous "old man" of the illicit heroin trade, was arrested at his luxurious Detroit home. Authorities say Calabrese is a member of the Mafia with direct connections to Charles "Lucky" Luciano, whom they describe as czar of the world's drug trade. Calabrese has a police record going back to 1922 on charges ranging from gambling to murder.—Central Press Canadian

Setting Up A Hockey Forward Line

The players on a line should be strong and physically capable. In other words, the coach should study the players carefully both in respect to their attitude and physical capabilities and try to form his group so that the players are playing together. If this is not done, the line will not be a team. There seems to be no reason why the players who are physically capable should be placed on one line regardless of whether or not they play from the same side. It has been proved that a right-handed forward, for example, does nothing of his effectiveness when playing on the left wing.

If a coach wants a certain line or group to be an offensive threat, he should think offensively when making up a line. It is very difficult to get effective offensive units from a group of three players who think offensively from the defensive point of view.

The habit of placing one defensive man on a line with two strong offensive players is order to keep checking emphasis in line play. This is done by the opposition, but at the same time it frequently weakens the offensive strength of the same line.

It seems by far the best thing to put a defensive forward on a line no matter how weak their checking is. This is because the player on the defensive line no matter how weak their checking is, will not be as strong as the offensive player on the same line.

World Happenings Briefly Told

Britain will make a gift of military equipment worth $100,000 to Yugoslavia during the coming winter. Foreign Under Secretary of State, Lord Halifax, said today.

The trade department estimates that as a per-capita basis Canada in the 12 months ended September last sold $134 worth of goods to every man, woman and child in the world.

Mrs. V. A. Drysdale, founder of the Athens private school for boys, has been awarded a third prize of $300 in the Australian government-sponsored literary competition.

The Canadian consulate in Frankfurt has moved to Bonn, the West German capital, where it has replaced an honorary consulate of the Canadian embassy. The consul is W. B. Davidson, a former newspaper editor.

This year's pulpwood cut in Canada will reach the 120,000,000-cord mark, according to a statement by the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association told the Society of Automotive Engineers at Montreal.

Australian alumnus and engineers have moved into the lonely Coles island, beauty spot, in the middle of the Tasmanian, to build a strategic new base and strategic place for a stationing between Britain and Australia.

Twenty-four villages in the Grampian mountain region will get grants of four per cent from the federal government to help them arrive at Banbridge recently. The Grampian highlanders have already received gifts of clothing, food and soap from Canada.

On The Side : E. V. Durling

Among a series of unkind remarks about the characteristics of husbands and wives, one says: "They get close together in the way of creeping in about the ears." Isn't it strange sometimes the time after time, we find ourselves in repeating their experience that they should be inclined to meet at a man who wants to appear as young as possible?

It is not always the appearance of a man. A man has a variety of means for revealing the appearance of his face. He may use a variety of means for revealing the appearance of his face. He may use a variety of means for revealing the appearance of his face.

There should be a law . . .

Why shouldn't there be a law that those who are married must be placed in a prominent position and illuminated at night? Give the messenger boys, delivery men and girls who are on their feet all night long, a place of honor around a section station to try to get a house number with no success. And then when you have found it, find it the house give you a dry look for being late to dinner?

Speaking of Records

Over seas of triplets, born in different years, I was informed to one set of triplets. It happened in Norfolk, Eng. One triplet was born in 1901, the other two in 1902. The triplets were born in the month of the first triplet and the other two were one week. This is said to be the record for elapsed time between triplets.

His First Love

Prince Charles of England is an avid dog enthusiast. He is continually with his parents to him a dog. He wants a big dog. Objection to a Great Dane. He calls dogs "wooden". First time he saw a Pekingese he trembled with laughter, saying to his nurse: "Look at that funny wooden!"

Cure for Colds

Italians rarely have nasal attacks. This is because their language stresses them the nasal cavities. This is also why so many Italians are in the habit of saying "I have a cold" in Italian. Therefore, if you are bothered by a "cure", why not learn to speak Italian? It might also make you a "cure".

at the same time? The answer seems to be that the players must be taught a clear-cut definition of when the offensive obligation shifts to a defender.

To make an offensive work to peak efficiency, the players must be able to concentrate on it without a haunting feeling that they are neglecting their defensive play. Long hours of practice with the offensive line will make the forward line may have down the field. In any game, the offense should be the one that is organized and carried out with fire and passion. And don't forget that the opposing team can score goals if your team has possession of the puck.

Probably the best example of the ideal line setup is the Line-Up. Abel, Howe combination of the Detroit Red Wings of the N.H.L. They have no offensive mind, but each one, up, plays and score goals with the best in the league, yet each one has an outstanding ability of his own community makes the ice-bound islands of southern Georgian Bay, which includes travelling to air alone in the west—Central Prairie Canada.

Sesk, Crude Oil Output Hits Record

REGINA.—Saskatchewan's crude oil production in 1951 totalled a record 1,140,351 barrels, the resources department reports.

This was an increase of 298,135 barrels over 1950, when the greatest previous yearly production was 842,216 barrels.

Most of the 1951 output came from the Lloydminster and Lone Rock fields which produce a heavy asphaltic type of oil. Other sources which contributed to last year's total were the Sina, Madeline and Columbia fields.

At the end of the year there were 161 producing wells in the Saskatchewan side of the Lloydminster field, 17 at Lone Rock, seven at Sina, six at Columbia and three at Madeline.

Deaths From T.B. in Manitoba Decreasing

WINNIPEG.—Deaths from tuberculosis in Manitoba decreased to an all-time low of 21.6 per 100,000 in 1951, Dr. R. L. Ross, medical director of the sanatorium board of Manitoba, said today.

"Although white population deaths are more than the previous year (there were 22 fewer lives lost during the year), this reducing the combined figure to 16 fewer deaths than in 1950," he said.

During 1951, 318,099 free chest X-rays were taken—41 per cent of the population of Manitoba.

Extensive educational, vocational and rehabilitation services were provided for sanatorium patients.

Incidence of new cases among Indians decreased from 30 in 1950 to 109 in 1951; amongst whites, cases dropped from 305 to 109.

Prairie Wildlife

THE SINGING SPARROW

(Mrs. Fred Bilbrey, Grenfell, in the Blue Jay)

Now are all you young folks ready to hear another little story of another of our prairie birds? I must tell you that our lovely blue jay is still with us. We have seen him many times among the cattle, of all places! He still seems to have a strong memory of his home.

He never rums. When called he sits quite still. Now I will tell you about the House Sparrow who could sing. One day about four years ago I was writing in the garden quite close to the house.

The "singing" sparrow was kicking and fluttering so I at once ran to see what had happened. I told her to put it down, which she did. I picked up a baby sparrow, all feathered, with a piece of one wing missing. The cat had not injured it in any way so I put it in a little box and fed it bread and milk a pair of tweezers.

We named him "Dicksie". Later we made a wooden cage for him and hung it in a south window. We taught Dicksie to feed himself from an cup in which we put grain and things. The children, of course, played with him and he became very tame.

He never knew a more clever bird. He became in a minute if a member of the family was a bird. He became excited and tried to fly after them as they hurried into another room. So we usually scooped him up and put him in a tin of ship of a water for a bath. One day he fell into a pail of water and was nearly drowned. What a thing!

Here are some of the things Dicksie learned. One of the children would put him on their hands; another would hold him in a cup.

Corals Island Natives Fascinated With Antics Of White Man

COCOS ISLANDS. — The simple, sun-loving natives of this coral island group are fascinated with the latest antics of the white man, who invaded their paradise to build an ultra-modern beach-club airport. Scores of the 1,500 natives are flocking here to watch the arrival of $2,000,000 worth of equipment to construct the airport on West Island.

The British-India freighter Pullar, carrying bulldozers, cranes, workshops and tractors, anchored off the island of Lagoon.

"Proboscis horns will be the first thing the R.A.F. men who will build the field. The airport will occupy 360 acres, from the beach to the lagoon," says the British island "king," 22-year-old John Christie Rose, by Australia for the Australian South Africa air services. The fleet

Strange Story May Unfold 1875 Mystery

ST. BONIFACE, Minn. — The strange story of a lumber-brother, a broken ooth and a house that was built on a label told may solve a Canadian political mystery.

Patience to locate the burial place of Thomas Scott has tantalized historians since the young Ontario Orangeman was shot on Louis Riel's ship, the Protege, March 4, 1870.

Scott was captured and ordered executed by Riel for taking up arms against the Canadian government and striking one of the guards. His body was placed in a coffin, which led to Col. Garnet Wolcott, then a 1,200-man force on the Red River and quelling the Riel uprising.

Scott's body lies in a casket in a room at the St. Boniface Hotel. His story came out recently because he "simply had to tell some of his secrets."

He says a fellow member, Brewster, found him in 1891 while he was sitting in a room along the wall of an old church where he had found the present church.

Brewster found a medal around the neck too rusted to read but saw no significance in it. He thought he had found the bones where he found them.

Matthews thought nothing of Brewster's story until 1915 when he was doing some work on a house at St. Boniface. An old man sat in a corner of the house musing in French and English.

A woman in the house — the old man's daughter or niece — didn't like him to talk. But by bit, as the planning job proceeded, Matthews found out that the old man was Antoine D. Legue, adjutant-general at a council of war which tried Scott's body.

Matthews says Legue told him that the bones were not Scott's but that he had taken an oath never to reveal where his body was buried. Legue, however, broke the oath in admitting to Matthews that the body was wrapped in lead foil from a casket of the house musing in French and English.

Matthews says he is certain that the bones mentioned by Legue and Brewster are the same. He says any one who wants to look for them will find them on either side of the hill leading to the Basilica.

Canada's oldest hobbyist, 70-year-old Farmer Uses Toopicks In Making Models

WINNIPEG. — Possibly the oldest of Canada's small group of hobbyists who model with toopicks is a 70-year-old farmer, Jack Moore, now spending the years of his retirement in Winnipeg.

Moore's greatest "shooting him out of the world" had Jim Moore, who lives at the Walnut street, calling around for a hobby several years ago. A magazine article devoted him, and in the first year he has fashioned for himself a variety of models that range from the simple to the complex.

Signs Of Cancer Disappear After Spin Before X-Rays

CINCINNATI. — An X-ray go-round has knocked out cancers in dozens of apparently hopeless patients, the second national cancer conference was held here today.

The X-ray go-round is a revolving chair. The patient sits in it while a 2,000-volt X-ray beam is aimed at his hidden cancer. As the patient sits slowly, the beam scans the cancer.

The X-ray go-round machine has damaging X-rays on its main and healthy tissue, and thus a bigger dose of X-rays.

The X-ray go-round machine was developed by Dr. J. H. Muller, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and is now being used by the American Cancer Society.

Details of results in the first 27 patients who could not be cut out or treated with ordinary X-rays.

Today, 157 have no signs of cancer, and some have been clear for one to two years.

him; therefore the Canadian way of life, as we know it, is unimaginable without the maintenance that is typified by the Red Maltese cross on a white background.

Now, if we'll our cards directly on the table. The Red Cross needs money. It needs a lot of money, $400,000 from the people of Alberta. That's a large sum, but it's a sound investment too. In return for your $400,000, the Red Cross plans to spend in Alberta this year, a total of $600,000. That's a big interest on your money, and not only big interest, for when you invest in Red Cross you invest in humanity. You follow along the path of the Good Samaritan, and you follow the advice of St. Paul who covered the subject of charity very thoroughly.

No organization is stronger than people in it, and the people of Albertans, we believe we've a lot that is missing in our area. The Red Cross is you... and you are the Red Cross. Albertans. Give as much as you can to the Red Cross during this 1932 campaign. You'll be the one to gain.

A BASIS FOR WORLD UNITY
An appeal for Dr. Frank Buchman and the task forces of Moral Re-Armament to help statesmen of the world to settle their differences in the field of foreign affairs was voiced recently by Dr. Salah El-Din Pasha, foreign minister of Egypt.

The Minister was speaking at a special assembly held over the New Year at Chaux, Switzerland, attended by representatives of 32 nations. After two days at the assembly he said:

"Although at the United Nations they are always divided, here they would be able to unite. Difficult questions are treated here without success. Perhaps here they could find a complete solution. There is no difficulty in human and other problems in a practical way because you approach them on a human basis."

"The principles on which Moral Re-Armament is based are the accepted principles of good character on which all religions of the world can agree. The religion of Islam is based upon them. No one can refuse them. The Koran says, 'God does not change what is in a nation until men change what is in themselves.'"

Saying that he attached as great importance to internal conditions in his country as he did to foreign affairs, Dr. Salah El-Din Pasha added:

"We seek nothing but freedom and independence and the unity of our land. I believe the principles and ideas of this movement will help solve our internal difficulties, and I will do all I can to make them known and applied. The peace of the world depends on the peace inside each one of us and each of us must begin with himself."

FORGING TOMORROW
The budget of the British Columbia government, totalling $185 millions on current and capital account, is an extreme example—the costal province always being the most extravagant in Canada—but it illustrates a disturbing trend in provincial finance that is a pretty general throughout the nation.

Through their federal government the taxpayers of Canada are asked to carry the heaviest burden of taxation they had ever known, except in time of total war. It is accepted because, in large part, it is necessary to defend the nation.

In his last budget speech, Mr. Abbott appealed to the provinces and municipalities to hold their expenditures as low as possible in order that the enormous drain of money into the federal treasury would do a minimum of damage to the taxpayers and to the national economy. In reply, the provinces, with a few honorable exceptions, have rejected Mr. Abbott's plea out of hand. They are increasing their expenditures greatly, thus adding to the inflationary pressures of the federal budget, the total debt of the nation and the weight of total taxation.

Last June, a committee of the Senate, under Senator T. A. Cramer, conducted a study of federal and provincial finance. It found that in 1920 the provinces (exclusive of Newfoundland) whose figures were not then complete, spent $356 millions, which was more than a third of the corresponding expenditures of the federal government, then standing at $2.5 billions. In 1940 the provinces had spent $581 millions, and in 1939 $545 millions. That is to say, the provinces, which were not largely concerned with the cost of the war, had tripled their spending in 11 years. In the same period municipal expenditures rose from $264 millions to $451 millions. And all this money, federal, provincial and municipal, came from the same taxpayer.

The provinces, by nature of their revenues, are peculiarly vulnerable to changes in the tempo of business. By assuming that the economic weather will always be as sunny as it is today, by assuming obligations which may be difficult to carry tomorrow, by increasing the pressure of inflation, by levying taxes which the taxpayers may not always be willing or able to bear—in short, by financing on the assumption of a perpetual boom, the provinces are storing up serious troubles for themselves in the future. The same may be said of a federal government which, apart from defence, continues to raise its expenditures to meet the expenditures of the future. The same may be said of a federal government which, apart from defence, continues to raise its expenditures to meet the expenditures of the future. The same may be said of a federal government which, apart from defence, continues to raise its expenditures to meet the expenditures of the future.

Remember the annual Spring Dinner of Delia United Church W.A. to be held in the church annex on Saturday next, March 29th, commencing at 5 p.m.

John Marshall, who had been a patient in the Hanna hospital, where he underwent an operation, arrived the latter part of last week, and is now convalescing satisfactorily.

D. J. Watters left last Thursday night by bus for Calgary, en route by train to Chas. B.C. on a week's visit to his son, L. H. Watters, the latter having purchased a hardware store at that point.

Mrs. Hugh MacFarland returned to Delia last week, after a large trip. It is some two weeks at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bolster, in Calgary. Mr. Bolster having had the misfortune to fall and injure a leg.

Spring appears to have arrived this week. There was a fall of wet snow in the early hours of Monday, but it quickly melted in the mid-day sun.

Warble Time Again

In spite of the trouble and loss caused by warble time in Alberta, only one fifth of the million and a half cattle in this province were treated for warble last year. W. Tolson, chief of the Canadian Veterinary Service, Alberta Department of Agriculture, reports that splendid work is being done by a number of organizations, but that still a large number of cattle are not protected.

In some cases Agricultural Service Boards are providing the leadership; in others, local organizations of farmers are doing the job themselves. In the ranching area individual power sprayers are used and annual spraying for warble is considered part of the regular program.

An example of farmer organization was given by the Canadian Warble Association. This association was organized about five years ago with a membership of 33 ranches, each of whom contributed towards purchase of a power sprayer. Later, 50 more farmers joined the association. A man is invited to travel from farm to farm operating cattle within an area two miles square. His equipment consists of a tractor, a small trailer, and a portable motor which holds from eight to ten cattle at a time.

The charge for spraying is fifteen cents per head for ranchers, and twenty cents per head for non-members. The operator is paid at a rate of ten cents per hour in travel, and is furnished everything except the sprayer, the portable motor and the powder. From 3,000 to 4,000 cattle a year are usually sprayed as a result of the efforts of the association.

It pays to treat for warble. Two cents per head spent for medical treatment means a saving of ten dollars in meat, milk, and hides. If you call in sick among the twelve hundred thousand that most unsightly pest, talk to your district agricultural agent, or write him. You can keep your herd free from these troublesome, flesh-eating warble flies.
